I built a sensor for the garden.
I compared two measurements before changing the code.

The second trial was more consistent.
I learned to test one change at a time.