I built a sensor and tested it each morning.

I learned to test one variable at a time.

We shared the findings with our classmates.